

Presently, the situation regarding the research activities on local and national level is very complex. On the other hand, the integration of Romania into the European Union brought the necessity to initiate in the universities open debates on these issues, debates which can be best carried out during the scientific conferences. In this context, the "UNIVERSITARIA SIMPRO" annual symposium of the University of Petrosani has as main goal bringing together famous researchers from academia and industry, so that participants have the opportunity to learn more about research activities on local and regional, as well as national and international level. Open dialogue and direct exchange of ideas regarding challenges, which appear in research, are aims of these academic events. We are waiting for your active participation in "UNIVERSITARIA SIMPRO 2010"!

The official opening will take place on 2010, October the 14th, at 10.00 a.m. (Romanian time), in the Aula of the University of Petrosani, with plenary presentations regarding research and cooperation, from the European research area point of view. The symposium will end on 2010, October the 15th, with a workshop about: "Research activities in Petrosani and Romania, in the European context – present and perspectives".
